

About Computronix

AT A GLANCE

Our Foundation

Computronix was established in 1979 by our founder, Herman Leusink, who at the time was working in the IT department of a large international corporation when he had a vision for what a company could be. He believed that companies could do great work while still being a place where people mattered. What evolved was a unique culture and company that has been referred to by outside observers as a "leading-edge healthy organization."

The company has maintained steady growth in revenue based on our corporate mission to "Respect, Trust and Serve;" our clients through our ongoing commitment to service excellence within a highly ethical and nurturing workplace.

Computronix Today

Today, Computronix offers 40 years of outstanding experience delivering award-winning solutions serving a wide variety of local, provincial and state government clients across North America. Our 200+ employees in the United States and Canada serve large government clients such as California, Dallas, Honolulu, Philadelphia, Vancouver, Calgary, Edmonton, and many more.

Steady and Reliable

Computronix is privately held and has been profitably grown without any mergers, acquisitions or restructuring. Unique to Computronix in our industry is the absence of any project terminations, contract breaches or litigation by any party for any reason in the company's history.

Successful Solution Implementation

Because of our commitment to serving our existing client base and strategic partnering with new clients, we have a track record of 100 percent success in implementing streamlined, fully integrated software solutions for large government regulatory organizations.

Our proven core competencies include successfully delivering award-winning solutions for licensing, permitting, inspections, code enforcement, land management, environmental management, public health, technical safety, and on-line customer/citizen access. We're widely recognized as a market leader in developing innovative, state-of-the art, flexible systems using Web-enabled, browser-based, wireless, and mobile platforms.
